

Cottingham Little Theatre

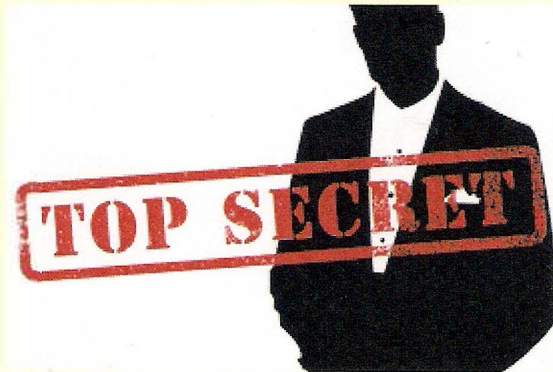

presents a Murder Mystery

written by Chris Martin

Who Killed

the Secret

Agent?

Thursday 7th & Saturday 9th February

2019

at 7.00 p.m. for a 7.30 start in the Darby & Joan Hall

Tickets available from the Social Secretary: 849655

Ticket price £10.00

Supper included
Bring your own drinks!

CLT Murder Mystery Evening:

WHO KILLED THE SECRET AGENT?

Thursday 7th & Saturday 9th February 2019
Darby & Joan Hall, Cottingham 7.00pm Tickets £10

The next in Cottingham Little Theatre's popular Murder Mystery Evenings will be "Who Killed the Secret Agent", a 1960s-spoof-murder-mystery guaranteed to leave you both shaken and stirred!

It's 1961. With the Space Race hotting up, Britain and the US are preparing to send their top agents to Moscow to infiltrate the Russian's cosmonaut programme. Enter Marcus Moul-Lightly, Agent Double OMG. Daring, charismatic, completely lacking in tact and modesty - it's not altogether surprising when the sky falls on him! But was the murder part of an internal plot, an American conspiracy, or 'from Russia with love'? The future of world peace rests on the outcome...

Our well-rehearsed team of actors perform -for your eyes only- two acts of the Murder Mystery, during which you will work out who had a license to kill. After a break for supper our cast will reveal the culprit(s) and there will be prizes for the team or teams which get the right answers! (A buffet supper is included but bring your own drinks to lubricate your little grey cells.)

Buy tickets during performances of "A Kick in the Baubles" or from Lynda on 849655 (from Monday 10th December)

THESE EVENINGS SELL OUT QUICKLY: DON'T MISS OUT!